

It's a key for breast cancer survivor
Maricel Fernandez

Jennifer Rosales hangs on to 3-shot lead in Hawaii

Extraordinary life of unconventional
Alicia Yuchengco

Success has its rewards. Realize your true potential

PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER

BALANCE NEWS, FAIRLY NEWS

Cockpit is first structure to rise in ravaged town

By Teresa Guzman
PHI United of London Clerk
CITY OF SMITHSONIAN
DO—Three months after explosion and destruction
shook the town of Bogalga in northern the COUNTRY

Sunday, February 27, 2005 • 22 pages • Vol. 18 • No. 21

Online: www.inq.net

POPE RALLIES

But for 1st time in 26 years an aide will do Sunday Angelus blessing

VATICAN CITY—For the first time in his 26-year pontificate, Pope John Paul II will leave an aide to perform his traditional Sunday Angelus blessing while the two-ribbed Pontiff, who has bounced back from numerous health scares, will follow the ceremony from his hospital bed, the Vatican announced.

The papal blessing will be performed in the name of John Paul II by Auxiliary Archbishop Leonardo Sandri at 12:30 p.m. in St. Peter's Basilica, Vatican spokesman Joseph Marini told AFP.

"The Holy Father's role and the usual tradition of the Angelus will be maintained," according to Marini, by the deputy secretary of state, Archbishop Giovanni D'Ercole, at 12 o'clock in St. Peter's Square.

Marini's spokesman, according to a statement from Marini's office.

"The Holy Father will join in the Angelus from his room in the Vatican's hospital."

Given his small determination to participate in public appearances, the Pope's illness is perhaps the traditional blessing will be done by Cardinal Sandri instead of the Pope as a sign that his condition had worsened. (See related story on Page A10.)

The aging Pope, who will be 83 in May, is currently bedridden through a stroke in his blood brain circulation on Thursday, which has left him unable to speak and dependent on written messages as his only source of communication.

Medical experts and Vatican insiders after have stated John Paul II's collapse

THE HOSPITAL Pope John Paul II, who is in bed, with a speechless face, is seen in his hospital room. The Pope was rushed to the hospital on Thursday only 14 days after he was taken from his previous hospitalization. Catholicism world over are in shock over the Pope's condition.

to part in his appearance at his open hospital window, exposed to the winter chill, during his earlier hospitalization.

"I am sure that the Holy Father was better after his last hospitalization but all the meetings he had to go to, and then the hospital... maybe it was too long for him," said Pope Marini, a long time friend of the Pope.

During his last stay in the hospital, the Pope appeared at the window of his specially-equipped suite to greet his

LAY IT WITH FLOWERS

The annual Paskagang Festival is ongoing along Bonifacio Road in Baguio City on weekend and all day the country's summer capital is a place of joy and delight. During the festival on Saturday an array of young things bear the city's signature flower, the carnation. Today's carnation festival includes a parade of floats.

Gutsy Garchi: Big loss SC never knew

By Amanda N. Nolasco

TO REMEMBER Gutsy Garchi, Francisco Gonsalves would have made a good number of the Supreme Court but his name of independence... a man who also spent time in a detention... missed his chance.

Francisco Gonsalves, who was not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

"He was a fearless judge, the one who was not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court," said one of the Supreme Court's justices, Justice Antonio Carpio, who was not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

In a telephone interview, Gonsalves described Gonsalves as "a very honest man" who was not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

The former justice ruled the high court for 11 years, "exercising a non-existent power," in a case where he would sit up against the Supreme Court.

one big thing with," he said.

According to one source, he was one of the justices of the Supreme Court who was not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

"During the last few years, when I was dangerous, he was there," he said. "He was one of the men who was not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court."

According to one source, he was one of the justices of the Supreme Court who was not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

"He was the judge, the one who was not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court," said one of the Supreme Court's justices, Justice Antonio Carpio, who was not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

"He was the judge, the one who was not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court," said one of the Supreme Court's justices, Justice Antonio Carpio, who was not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

FRANCISCO GONSALVES
Francisco Gonsalves, who was not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

RP AS JEWISH REFUGE

3 reunions give tribute, love, thanks to Filipinos

By Maricel Fernandez

FOR 70 YEARS in the history of the city of Cincinnati, Ohio, was there ever a Filipino? Not just one, but three reunions took place on the weekend of Feb. 11 to 13, 2005.

The first reunion honored the Frider family, a prominent Jewish-American family with roots in Cincinnati. The family's descendants, who are now living in Cincinnati, New York, and elsewhere.

The second reunion honored a group that called itself the "Gonsalves" family, who are now living in the Philippines.

The third reunion was the Filipino Jewish reunion, which was held in the city of Cincinnati.

and Humanity Education, established by the Jewish Federation of the Philippines, Inc. (JFPI), and the Jewish Community Center of the Philippines, Inc. (JCCPI).

The reunions took place in a hotel in the city of Cincinnati, Ohio. The first reunion was held in the city of Cincinnati, Ohio.

The second reunion was held in the city of Cincinnati, Ohio. The third reunion was held in the city of Cincinnati, Ohio.

The third reunion was held in the city of Cincinnati, Ohio. The fourth reunion was held in the city of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Man searches for his 'Holocaust' brothers

By Daniel H. Sloan

Illustration

ALL I AM is a man who is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

The man is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court. He is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

The man is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court. He is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

The man is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court. He is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

The man is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court. He is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

The man is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court. He is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

lived in the same way and was not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

The man is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court. He is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

The man is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court. He is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

The man is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court. He is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

The man is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court. He is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

The man is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court. He is not a man to be feared by the Supreme Court.

What's Inside

Erratic Jenny hangs on with up-down 69

KORORU, Hawaii—Jennifer Buresh kept her focus on a day that was by turns windy, rainy and sunny, posting a three-under 69 to hang on to her two-shot lead after Friday's second round of the UPGA tournament at the B resort's Golf Club.

Following a bogey-free first round, Buresh's second round effort was more erratic, but her nine-under total of 135 kept her in front of American debutist Sherry, who had seven bogeys in a 141 for 127.

"The wind was the same for some, but it was different for others," Buresh said. "The first hole, I hit it too long and after that, a lot of give away. I missed really terrible and missed a lot of putts, but I hung in there."

Buresh opened with a bogey but bounced back with a pair of birdies before dropping to par on the 10th.

Buresh picked up one more birdie in the final two holes, a scrambling second one.

After bogeys at 18 and 11, Buresh posted the final two birdies to finish 135. She closed the round with three straight birdies to make something of the day.

"I made a bogey on 10 and a bogey on 11, the same putt distance," Buresh said. "I was getting frustrated, and that did not help at all."

"I was not in my zone, so I could not make it to give me a good package that I could then build on to hit a shot. It seemed on 11 when I made a birdie. That kind of kept me going."

Buresh also was successful in her last two, collecting four birdies after beginning with a bogey at 18—the only one of the round.

"I think I was driving my wedge well," Buresh said. "I missed my putts quite a bit and was down off. It would run pretty good, so I cut it off and taking your time." Buresh did what she needed to do to play consistently.

"I thought I knew when I knew that I was a consistent birdie, but not there, there are some gaps," she said. "I missed a lot of shots and putts. I remember one shot in particular because it was a very close range."

Buresh had three shots before Buresh's final shot, a 135, and Buresh was four shots off a 135.

Buresh's nearest competitor Michelle Pao—playing in the final of her six women's tournaments on the UPGA Tour this year—after two bogeys with four strokes for a 70 that pulled her even with Mexico's Larena Gohas and South Korea's Kim Hyeon, five shots off the pace.

"I remember a little bit about the way the wind was blowing today. I think I was a little bit off (through the middle) in some ways," she said.

"I think I was playing a bit more today. Yesterday I think I was a little bit more nervous and being up today, I was for some of the pressure and the putts, and I think I did it."

PHOTOGRAPH BY JENNIFER BURESHER

Enrile pushes amendments to power reform act

By Michael Lian Ullian

BETTER late than never.

Four years after passing the landmark and historic Energy Industry Reform Act of 2001 (EIRA), legislators are now the last stand of its implementation of electricity.

Under Senate Bill No. 1329, Sen. Juan Ponce Enrile has proposed changes in the EIRA law to prevent power generators and distributors from abusing their additional costs due to their own inefficiency, mistakes and questionable income generation and cost.

Enrile wants reforms that would "clarify, regulate and coordinate generation and distribution practices to end some of the abuses in the hope of spurring private competition and making services to industry participants." He said electric consumers "rightfully deserve a solution that will cut the fat from our electricity bills."

The bill also sought to lower costs by providing "greater competition and market access" to all industry participants. It protects electricity consumers, Enrile proposed.

• The National Power Corp. and distribution utilities shall be allowed to recover their "unavoidable costs" with independent power producers (IPPs) through the internal charge after continuous review of these transactions.

• Bidding activities without open competitive bidding must be subjected to regular monitoring to eliminate or minimize the pass-on mechanism.

• Separated support costs will be reflected from consumers of the distribution utility concerned to its own franchise territory.

• All rates that would be fixed and determined by the government charge shall be approved by the Energy Regulatory Commission (ERC) only after due notice and public hearing participated only all parties.

Enrile Roldan's pals may turn state witness

By Abner Puga

THEY couldn't be better. Quezon City Rep. Roldan Roldan may turn state witness (whistle-blower) after the Philippines' 2 new utilities.

Quezon City Rep. Roldan, head of police investigations and Police Anti-Corruption and Human Rights Response (PACRH), said the possibility of Roldan's acceptance turning state witness was the latest development in the case.

"But we are still looking at," Tacila said without elaborating.

Another officer involved in the investigation of the kidnapping earlier said the testimony of the two would be the case against Roldan and Enrile for the kidnapping.

The officer and the information provided by the two accomplices were being utilized, and their qualifications as state witnesses evaluated.

In quality, the two should be the last part of the case, the officer said.

Being a close friend of the boy's mother, was said to have provided Roldan information on the child's movements.

In a recent TV interview, Roldan denied involvement in the kidnapping but admitted to having a relationship with Roldan (Michael Roldan@msn.com).

Gov't to review oil deregulation law

By John Llanos-Jordan and Regino, Jr.

THE GOVERNMENT will review the nine-year old law that deregulated the oil industry as prices of their products continued to rise.

Pres. Arroyo's Office, however, cited the position of outgoing Energy Secretary Vito Cruz who said he was open to the possibility of reviewing the oil deregulation law following a series of consultations.

"Secretary Cruz recently mentioned that he is open to the possibility of reviewing the oil deregulation law," Regino said in a text message interview.

Noting at 12:30 a.m., the third largest oil firm in the Philippines (MOPV) has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

MOPV has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

MOPV has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

MOPV has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

MOPV has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

MOPV has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

MOPV has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

MOPV has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

In its announcement issued last Friday evening, the company said the price adjustment was in response to competitive market forces as most local oil firms had advanced price lists earlier this day.

Spurred from competition, however, Calson said that surge in international and regional oil prices also prompted it to hike its price.

Indefinite gasoline based on the March of March (MOPV) has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

MOPV has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

MOPV has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

MOPV has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

MOPV has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

MOPV has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

MOPV has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

MOPV has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

MOPV has been asked to review the oil deregulation law, which Cruz, as a past product manager, said is based on pricing in products, compared to a 1994, 1.22 average of $50.87 a barrel from $47.58 a barrel last month.

Enrile Petroleum Corp., South Philippine Corp., and South Philippine Petroleum, Inc., also picked up the price of their gasoline and diesel by 90 centavos a liter and 90 centavos a liter, respectively.

But oil refiners Petron Corp. and Philippine Shell Petroleum Corp. had yet to adjust their prices despite the price hike initiated by their competitors.

Independent players Piling 5 and PTT Philippines Corp. also said they would continue to monitor market conditions before making any price adjustments.

Gasoline prices rose for the first time this year, after oil firms early last month reduced gasoline prices by 14 cents.

Diesel prices, on the other hand, had gone up twice since the start of the year by a total of 90 centavos a liter.

Pres. Arroyo's Office said that "the review of the law is in light of the recent adjustment in fuel prices" and several oil firms have not raised prices.

Republic Act 8386, the Government Oil Industry Deregulation Act of 1996, was implemented to promote a more competitive market and prices by allowing the entry of "small" oil players in the market monopolized by the established three, namely, Philippine Shell Petroleum, Tallex Philippines Inc., and Petron Inc.

This paved the way for the removal of the government monopoly in oil prices, called the Oil Price Stabilization Fund, which provided a cushion to oil prices in times of crisis.

In 1999, a new oil deregulation law (RA 8447) was enacted to open the way for the full deregulation of the oil industry.

SUPREME COURT DOCTRINES

LEGAL STRIP—Duty of society public—Private public should be limited to carrying out their functions. They must observe with the highest degree of care the basic requirements in their performance of their duties in order to preserve the confidence of the public in the integrity of the judicial system. Courts, agencies and the public at large must be able to rely upon the acknowledgment (expressed) by society public appended to instruments. These functions should not be restricted and they must observe the basic requirements and duties which are imposed with public interest, with accuracy and fidelity. With the rising faith of the public in the integrity of public documents, this must still remain all the more the society public to be more vigilant in the discharge of their duties. Indeed, limited documents and private property of the legal system of the state to an acknowledgment or joint to be received. The act of acknowledgment is treated with absolute public interest such that only those who are qualified to acknowledge have performed the duties of society public. This responsibility is more pronounced when the society public is a lawyer. A private responsibility is placed upon him by reason of his status such to obey the laws and to do so without any concern to the duty or not. He is considered to be the society public, being determined by public policy and recognized with public interest. Filing in his name, he must have the communication communication. (Citation omitted.) (Dilao, Justice Antonio Martinez, Solicitor General, Adm. Case No. 9779, November 11, 2004)

B-E-B, 2004

4 US soldiers, 13 Iraqis killed; British soldiers jailed for abuse

BECKING—Four US soldiers and 13 Iraqis were killed in recent Iraq assaults that British soldiers were jailed in Germany for abusing Iraqi prisoners. Meanwhile, a US general ruled out a claim for a full lawsuit of security in Iraq, saying it would be too costly to pursue.

At Baghdad's military court, the general said the US military had established a committee to investigate the deaths.

The deaths of four US soldiers and 13 Iraqis were the first since the start of the invasion in March 2003, according to Pentagon figures.

It came as US forces moved into a sixth day of what they call Operation Al-Furqan, aimed at increasing security throughout western and central Iraq.

The military said it had arrested 33 people Friday and 155 more the operation kicked off.

Thirteen other US soldiers were killed and nine wounded Friday when troops were firing a roadside bomb while on patrol near Tikrit, the military said.

But in a possible security breakthrough, Iraq's government said a cease-fire with US troops was in place. Abu Mubarak al-Qasbi had been arrested, along with some who had been in his division.

"Security forces in Iraq conducted a raid in Anbar (in western Iraq) on Feb. 26 resulting in the capture of 33 US soldiers, 155 Iraqis, and 13 US soldiers, also Abu Mubarak al-Qasbi, a senior leader, and other high-ranking officials," he said.

The arrested soldiers and transportation for the captured soldiers as well as US troops and British soldiers, the military said.

In addition to the attacks on US forces, two members of the Iraqi security forces, seven civilians and four insurgents had been killed since Thursday security forces said.

Meanwhile, insurgents also continued their attacks on Iraq's strategic infrastructure. A pipeline in the oil-rich southern region of Baghdad was blown up Friday night, said Ali Abdullah, an official from the Petroleum Oil Co.

In Germany, three British soldiers were jailed for abusing Iraqi prisoners and were disarmedly discharged from the Army in a case that has drawn comparisons with US mistreatment of prisoners at the infamous Abu Ghraib prison.

US David Norton, 31, was jailed for 18 months, also being found guilty of three charges. Later (p. 10), Mark Gordon, 25, was jailed for two years for disciplinary and moral conduct for driving a heavy truck with a loaded Iraq prisoner from the prison.

APF

THAI DEVILS
A Thai traditional dance performer at the Festival of the Arts, 26, in Bangkok, Thailand. The site, which is dedicated to the Ministry of Culture, is popular with tourists. Photographs in the thousands are daily in the culture in other pages.

North American Anglicans defend gay policies

OTTAWA—The North American branches of the Anglican Church defended their conservative stance on Friday of submitting to an attempt by the worldwide communion to reach down on ordaining gay bishops and blessing same-sex unions.

Anglican church leaders meeting in Northern Ireland decided late on Thursday to ask the Episcopal Church USA and the Anglican Church of Canada to voluntarily withdraw from its decision-making Anglican Communion Council and for a declaration on same-sex blessings and gay bishop ordination.

The two churches said they would maintain the respect to withdraw but refused to commit to a fight away. And they defended their policies that had triggered the controversy.

"The Episcopal Church has sought to act with integrity," Presiding Bishop Frank C. Griswold said in a statement from the meeting. The denomination had reached a decision to allow the ordination of openly gay Gene Robinson as bishop, and his statements gave an impression of a lack of future ordinations.

At least two dissenters said they would continue to submit the findings of same-sex unions for some degree of respect for a statement.

The diocese of North Carolina—one of seven US dioceses with policies on same-sex blessings—said it would maintain its position.

"The current policy will continue until this issue makes its way through the discussion process now under way," spokespersons from the Episcopal Church said.

The British Columbia diocese of New Westminster, which stated same-sex blessings in 2001, also said it would not agree to a statement meeting called it again in May.

The bishops continue to have (p. 10) the right.

The presence of the Canadian church, Archbishop Andrew Hutchings said he would maintain his past recommendation of a commitment but not be personally involved in such decisions. He said the church had been using within its rights and chose to be inclusive.

"Only as a prior of justice is not a prior they have been prepared to pay," he said.

A conservative wing of the Episcopal Church, however, refused to be taken from the Northern Ireland meeting, the result of a vote. Facing by traditional churches like in the United States.

The clergy with which the previous two groups in conflict, said Pittsburgh Bishop Robert Surin of the Anglican Communion Network. "The authority of Anglican is upheld."

There is now a question over whether the worldwide Anglican Church will stay in one, though those were agreed to have been brought until the once-a-year Lambeth Conference in 2006.

"What this has done is brought us back from the brink," Canadian Archbishop Fred McCrellan said by telephone.

BUTTS

TALK of the TOWN

Getting to know you (and how!)

FILIPINOS have consistently rejected the idea of a national identification card. In a historic case, Andres Benaides and the Kapangpangans tore up their copies in August 1996. The card, personal, equivalent to the present community residence tax, was a symbol of allegiance to Spain. The tearing up of this Spanish identification document marked the rebirth of the Philippine Revolution.

The dawn of the First Philippine Republic led by Emilio Aguinaldo also inspired a form of identification certificate and taxation called contribucion personal. But Filipinos found this idea as it was considered a relic of the Spanish colonial rule.

Also unpopular were the residence certificate imposed during the Japanese Occupation and the attempt by President Ferdinand Marcos to come up with a national identification card.

Marcos, who had a penchant for employing instruments for surveillance on citizens to ensure political control, reportedly tried to adopt a national ID project similar to a counter insurgency program developed by the US Central Intelligence Agency in Vietnam, which required the registration of all Vietnamese 15 years of age and above and the issuance of ID cards to them.

Filipino presidents after Marcos have also flirted with the idea of a national ID. But they, too, had not been successful. For instance, then President Fidel Ramos issued in 1996 an administrative order establishing a national identification system for Filipinos and foreign residents but was rebuffed by the Supreme Court in 1996. The tribunal said the order would put the citizens' right to privacy "in clear and present danger" and strip the legislative function of Congress. (JFN Research)

The Supreme Court said the collection of "personal information constitutes a covert invasion to privacy, a temptation that may be too great for some of our ambitious leaders."

President Macapagal-Arroyo is reviving her proposed bill for Congress to pass a bill setting up a national ID system following the Feb. 14 bombings in the cities of Manila, General Santos and Davao.

Filipinos already have a variety of IDs—SSS ID, GSIS e-Card, PhilHealth card, driver's license, PRC ID, Tagapagpili's Identification Number, Mayor's ID, Postal ID, yellow card if one lives in Manila, and office ID, among others. They may not welcome another ID, if only the government could use to snoop on them.

Identification cards of Filipinos

SSS ID
A social security system ID bears a member's photo, name, birth date and age, sex, as well as the SSS ID number. It is primarily used to have applications for salary loans and benefits for sickness, disability, maternity, disability and death.

If the lack of the ID is a machine-readable except only that gives the cardholder access to his or her benefit with the agency after laying in a two-page PhilHealth card, it may be used in information systems as well as in the SSS ID.

The ID also helps reduce transactions with banks, hospitals, health-care providers and other government agencies.

Under the Social Security Act of 1998, SSS membership is compulsory for private employees, self-employed persons, independent contractors or self-employed, who are not over 60 years old, household heads, workers, and employees of foreign organizations or government should also be covered. Children below 15 years of age are not subject to compulsory coverage.

It has about 7.2 million SSS IDs have been issued by the agency since November 1998. It is all members are entitled to an ID, however. The members should make at least one monthly contribution to the agency before he or she may be issued a card. As of March 2003, membership in the SSS is as follows: employees, 775,504; contractors, 22,000; and self-employed, 470,124.

GSIS e-Card
The GSIS e-Card displays a member's name, picture and Government Service Insurance System number and allows cardholders to transact business with the agency without having to line up at an office.

GSIS received its license from the Department of Insurance to replace its old card. In January 2003, about 380,000 GSIS members had received their ID out of about 1.4 million government employees.

Members can file their own applications or have them done by the agency and, with their e-cards, withdraw their funds in benefits from an automated teller machine of banks, insurance companies and other financial institutions.

The GSIS ID is used to speed up transactions with the agency such as applications for loans and funds for its insurance, retirement and other benefits. Members may also use their e-card to file and pay contributions that accept Visa and MasterCard.

It is eligible for GSIS membership if he or she is an employee or volunteer official receiving fixed compensation, is a government employee, temporary, casual or contractual employee with an employer-employee relationship, a member of the judiciary or a constitutional commission, and, receiving basic salary (not per diem), honorarium or allowances.

The GSIS has a total of 1,424,000 active members, categorized as follows: national agencies, 480,000; local government units, 280,400; Department of Education, 104,751; and government-owned and controlled corporations, 56,200.

PhilHealth card
The Philippine Health Insurance Corporation issues the member's name, age, sex and his or her picture. It is a machine-readable ID but does not have the cardholder's photo, and it is not used for identification but for the subscriber program only.

It is used in health-care institutions such as hospitals and health centers, and other programs under the National Health Insurance Program (NHIP).

The program covers employed members both in the government and private sector, including private and hospital employees, employed, employed, self-employed, and professional, Filipino workers and professionals in private practice, occupying positions, officers and professionals of the SSS and GSIS, members who have reached the age of retirement and have paid at least 120 monthly contributions, and indigent members who receive their IDs from their respective health-care facilities.

Postal ID
The Postal ID is a card that identifies the member's name, address, and other information. It is used for identification purposes, such as for the issuance of a passport, the ID is recognized abroad by members of the United Nations.

At 7 inches by 3 inches, the Postal ID is bigger than the size of most IDs. It contains a bigger photo of the holder, his or her name, address, and other information. The card also contains the member's name, address, and other information. The card also contains the member's name, address, and other information. The card also contains the member's name, address, and other information.

The Postal ID is issued by the post office as a means of identifying its members.

It is used to get a passport or to get a Postal ID. But the application form requires a photo of the member, which is not a requirement of the application. This form has to be submitted to the post office.

Residence certificate
The Individual Community Tax Certificate is a document that identifies the member's name, address, and other information. It is used for identification purposes, such as for the issuance of a passport, the ID is recognized abroad by members of the United Nations.

It is used to get a passport or to get a Postal ID. But the application form requires a photo of the member, which is not a requirement of the application. This form has to be submitted to the post office.

Yellow card
The yellow card is a document that identifies the member's name, address, and other information. It is used for identification purposes, such as for the issuance of a passport, the ID is recognized abroad by members of the United Nations.

It is used to get a passport or to get a Postal ID. But the application form requires a photo of the member, which is not a requirement of the application. This form has to be submitted to the post office.

TIN
The Tagapagpili's Identification Number (TIN) is a document that identifies the member's name, address, and other information. It is used for identification purposes, such as for the issuance of a passport, the ID is recognized abroad by members of the United Nations.

It is used to get a passport or to get a Postal ID. But the application form requires a photo of the member, which is not a requirement of the application. This form has to be submitted to the post office.

PRC license ID
The Professional Regulatory Commission (PRC) administers, implements and enforces regulatory rules for its 12 professions. One would be professionals and their respective local boards and regulatory boards with the Commission, they will be given their license and PRC ID.

The board of the professional, regulatory board, implementation, and enforcement of the rules of the PRC ID is the responsibility and province of the board of the professional, regulatory board, implementation, and enforcement of the rules of the PRC ID.

The board of the professional, regulatory board, implementation, and enforcement of the rules of the PRC ID is the responsibility and province of the board of the professional, regulatory board, implementation, and enforcement of the rules of the PRC ID.

Across the NATION

Read us online: www.inquirer.com.ph

Assistant Editor: Tony Magallon

PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER
 1101 Market Street, 15th Floor
 Manila, Philippines 1000
 Tel. (632) 8634-1011
 Fax (632) 8634-1011
 Email: inquirer@inquirer.com.ph

PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER
 1101 Market Street, 15th Floor
 Manila, Philippines 1000
 Tel. (632) 8634-1011
 Fax (632) 8634-1011
 Email: inquirer@inquirer.com.ph

PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER
 1101 Market Street, 15th Floor
 Manila, Philippines 1000
 Tel. (632) 8634-1011
 Fax (632) 8634-1011
 Email: inquirer@inquirer.com.ph

CAGAYAN VIOLENCE

Vice mayor held in ambush on mayor

CAGAYAN CITY—Police on Friday arrested the vice mayor of Lagan, Cagayan, after he was tagged as the instigator in the failed ambush on Lagan Mayor Eulogio Agapio Jr. on Feb. 16.

Agapio was wounded while, two others, including Agapio's 12-year-old nephew, were killed police officials said.

Police Sgt. Arnel Adriano said while giving one of the suspects (PUNED), supposedly as part of payment for the act.

He said they attacked on "Shirley Jose-Alm Infante Jr., a former long singer who was no party. He has past injuries in the ambush.

Infante, who was arrested through a warrant issued by Judge Sergio-Cano of the Lagan Municipal Trial Court, yielded a 40-cal. pistol.

In Lagan, some 2,000 residents, residents and local government officials, including on Wednesday demanded justice for the killing of Agapio's nephew, Infante, and wife Orlando Quintero.

Agapio, who led the rally during the funeral of his nephew and Quintero, appealed for justice and called on those responsible for the ambush to "step back and listen to the words of the Lord."

After mourning during the funeral, was Agapio's son, Eulogio

II, the mayor's brother-in-law and SPOT Alvin Bago.

In Lagan, several are on leave, giving the possible involvement of politicians in present cases but have been tagged responsible for killings in the province. Philander Pineda Jr. and Lagan Mayor Eulogio Pineda Jr. are Lagan Mayor

Laog mayor says pols behind raps he shot vice mayor

LAOG CITY, Mayors Michael Lee (PUNED) said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

GMA asked to appoint Kapampangan to Clark post

CITY OF SAN PABLO—The Local officials and businessmen in Pampanga have urged the management of GMA president, Imelda Marcos, to appoint a Kapampangan to the post of the Clark Development Corp.

San Pablo Mayor and Rep. Benigno Aquino Jr., in a letter to the GMA president, requested for a Kapampangan to be appointed to the post of the Clark Development Corp.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

He said he was not involved in the shooting of the vice mayor of Laog, Cagayan, on Feb. 16.

Hearing Solutions from Siemens

A new sound on the horizon...

Here at Siemens, the best hearing care has to offer great service, quality products manufactured by Siemens and the knowledge that your hearing levels will be met. In the photo below, you'll notice the latest Siemens hearing aid. In actual you can hardly see it!

If you think you or family member may have a hearing loss, call us to schedule a FREE HEARING TEST!

Bring in an old hearing aid and receive a $5.00% credit on discount!

NEW!
 Suite 1100 Medical Plaza
 100 American & New York St.
 Laguna Hills, CA
 Tel. 949-441-1111

NEW!
 Suite 1100 Medical Plaza
 100 American & New York St.
 Laguna Hills, CA
 Tel. 949-441-1111

NEW!
 Suite 1100 Medical Plaza
 100 American & New York St.
 Laguna Hills, CA
 Tel. 949-441-1111

NEW!
 Suite 1100 Medical Plaza
 100 American & New York St.
 Laguna Hills, CA
 Tel. 949-441-1111

SOUNTEX
 The Hearing Care Professionals
www.sountex.com

INQUIRER Mindanao

Editor Jon Bordado

Area Chief/News & Accounts

Group justifies violence in Christ's name

By Jil K. Greco
Cagayan de Oro City

SAYING they will refuse even the help of court-appointed lawyers, 17 members of a group calling itself the Jesus Christ Followers (JCF) insist that they will let their attorneys defend them in court.

The members, six of them aged 11 to 19 years old, were brought to Cagayan de Oro City last month after a clash with policemen, but each of them retained in post P12,000 to bail, citing the number of attorneys with subpoenas.

The JCF members remain obstinate, defiant, asserting those faced with subpoenas, just like when they did during preliminary investigations proceedings in the trial of Justice in Feb. 1.

Similar to the Justice Movement, the police chief, said the detainees would be charged with direct assault. They could face other charges pending completion of the police investigation of the last case, he said.

"We will run this country upside down," said Edilberto Tugano, owner of the JCF school and one of those arrested.

Tugano said his group would use the authorities in their and would showcase their students' brilliance as proof of the school's superior academic standards by killing the six students inside their classroom.

MEMBERS of the JCF held in Lumina, Cagayan de Oro City.

Tarbacks' generation

Swearing at the prospect of working with court-appointed lawyers and telling the news press "tarbacks," Tugano outside his classroom that these students, through looking in legal training, could give the prosecution in court.

"We demand that every one [the law] against the JCF be dropped and we demand a public trial," the said, presenting fronts to the courts.

Calling themselves modern-day apostles of Jesus Christ, the JCF aims for a future state of spiritual and moral enlightenment. The school was established in 1994 by Tugano and his business partner, Lorraine Millaire from Sydney.

Commenting that the solution to the global difficulties of the average Filipino is to find work abroad, Tugano said they were drawn by the desire to provide people with the means, through education, to find out. This and the concept aim to spread an unusual interpretation of the Bible.

No bail

"We are not a cult," Greco said, adding that they are all equals and there are no communication figures among them. Though looking to established religious doctrines, Greco said there is none of a spontaneous Christianity, a way of life based on their interpretation of the Bible.

For instance, the movement Christian doctrine of loving one's neighbor, the JCF took turning the other cheek all together. It believes Jesus Christ was a saint, as well as a teacher, not a god.

And violence, in response to oppression or perceived oppression, is justified, according to the group's interpretation of the Bible. This partly explains its anti-hermeneutic to authorities.

Wielding steel pipes, it also, under and because members strapped in plastic, JCF members fought policemen on Jan. 26, leaving three officers injured. Twenty-two JCF members, many of whom had first injuries, were arrested.

Student refuge

The construction was city grand hotel refused a school of refuge in hotel over one of their students, a 15-year-old, in her parents. The girl had sought refuge inside the school compound, where several of the students also reside, after spending with her parents.

School officials reportedly refused to allow the child to enter, prompting the parents to seek the help of authorities.

Parents' members, aged 18 to 21 years old, who were inside the school premises during the clash, were subsequently placed in the custody of the City Penal Institute and Island-Specific offices. All of them were released in their parents after three days.

The clash was the latest in a series of encounters that began in 2003. The latest incident, however, had a previous Department of Education (DepEd) recommendation urging the school's closure from one end, according to police officers. The DepEd made its suggestion two years ago after finding the school deficient in complying with its requirements.

Expired permits

According to Justice (JCF), Education Supervisor II of the DepEd in Southern Mindanao, the school's temporary permit to operate had already expired but school officials, led by Tugano and school administrator Rhapsody Macalino, refused to apply for recognition.

Moreover, the school had adopted a controversial doctrine from which the DepEd questioned the primary and secondary instruction. "No teach outside that are offered in schools, we do not follow the DepEd system," Tugano said.

There are no Philippine students as there are no demand and no support for the employment abroad. To see the student composition, Tugano said the primary work at the JCF school was 98 percent for all subjects, instead of the curriculum 70 percent.

Not going to school in 70 percent and receiving 100 percent, said we are not going to let our students who cannot attain the 100 percent passing mark graduate," she said.

Judicial issue

This high academic standard should be enough to compel the DepEd to avoid permanent recognition in the JCF school, Tugano said.

Just in a separate statement of rules, the school owner said it was the DepEd, not the JCF school, that worked as a restriction in practice/curriculum.

The issue of jurisdiction over schools operating in the city without license has remained unsettled. After officials say the school has operated for two years even as it being without a license (they could not do anything to the school of a clear deviation from DepEd guidelines).

DepEd officials say they have done their share in recognizing the school's closure. The city council received a copy of one such document recommending in 2003 and subsequently passed a resolution that same year, urging the mayor to shut down the school.

De La Salle-College of Saint Benilde

School of Professional and Continuing Education

The School of Professional and Continuing Education (SPCE) offers advanced education in key business management competencies in strategic industries.

SPCE offers innovative education through programs designed by industry experts. Each module gives students an immediate take away value that they can readily apply at work. It incorporates the best practices plus the latest trends and development.

Your Shortcut to Success

International Business Environment
A module under the International Management Program, in partnership with the Department of Training Institute for Foreign Trade in Asia and the Pacific (ITFPA).
March 10 - June 10 Pkg 1,500

Security Coaching
A certificate course offered in partnership with D-3-CBR in Science Department Office.
March 10, 23, and 30 Pkg 1,500

Business Marketing
A module under the Management and Human Resource Development Program.
March 10 - April 30 Pkg 1,500

Event Planning
A module under the Professional Events Management Program.
March 10 - April 30 Pkg 1,500

Retail Marketing Strategy
A module under the Retail Management/Operations Program, in partnership with the Philippine Retailers Association (PRA).
March 10 - April 30 Pkg 1,500

Computer-based and Administrative Training Development
A module under the Training Management and Development Program, in partnership with the Philippine Society for Training and Development (PSTD).
March 10 - April 30 PSTD members Pkg 1,200 Non-members Pkg 1,500

Organizational Development
A module under the Organizational Development Program.
March 10 - April 30 Pkg 1,500

Customer Relationship and Marketing
A module under the Marketing Communications Management Program, in partnership with the Philippine Association of National Advertisers (PANA).
March 10 - April 30 PANA members Pkg 1,200 Non-members Pkg 1,500

Real Estate Appraisal and Property Management
A module under the Real Estate Management Program, in partnership with the Philippine Real Estate Association (PREA).
March 10 - April 30 PREA members Pkg 1,200 Non-members Pkg 1,500

The Purchasing Functions and Practices
A module under the Purchasing and Supply Chain Management Program, in partnership with the Philippine Association for Supply Chain Management (PASCAM).
March 10 - April 30 PASCAM members Pkg 1,200 Non-members Pkg 1,500

Performance Management
A module under the Human Resource Management Program.
March 10 - April 30 Pkg 1,500

Advancing Research for Business Intelligence
A module under the Business Intelligence/Management Program.
March 10 - April 30 Pkg 1,500

There are no tuition fees and no entrance exams. Students are given a place in their early job opportunities and internships.

School of Professional and Continuing Education
De La Salle-College of Saint Benilde
San Mateo, Rizal 1505
Email: spce@dsccsb.edu.ph

URL: <http://www.dsccsb.edu.ph/academic/Services/SPCE/index.htm>

A SHOTGUN police fire, disarmed in one classroom of the JCF JCF followers have accused police of using excessive force in a confrontation last month over the JCF followers' refusal to turn over a student to her parents. The six who violence is justified and is addressed in the Bible.

E23 SUBENTRIES

32 2 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12

(See next page)

Free on your desktop:
http://www.inquirer.ph/technology/2009/02/27/027_tech01.html

Available for your desktop at: www.inquirer.ph/technology/2009/02/27/027_tech01.html

METRO

Editor Enno G. Diogenes • Assistant Editor Cesar B. Bito Jr.

442 Laptops/Via-Plus

SWEEPSTAKES

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12

₱30,309,260.10

₱100,000.00

Telco makes smart move in schools

By Edwin C. Tanada Jr.

THE NEW Telcel Mobile Internet at High School (MIBIS) makes the idea that Telcel wants to use the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool.

At the heart of their school is a learning center for students with a computer unit, with each Internet connection.

Even better, the Telcel will not charge for the use of its own money. Instead, it is free for students to use the Internet to their research, the world's most powerful tool.

"We used to rely heavily on books for our research. We had no additional resources. Books are not always available in our school," said a student.

More than two weeks ago, the school received new computers from the Telcel Communications. The Philippine Long Distance Telecommunications Company gives these Internet access the school.

Just over two days since the school was complete with new computers and Internet access, the school has been awarded the award.

First up

The MIBIS is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS), a private sector initiative to promote information and communication technology by giving up Internet-based learning resources for schools. It is a school public school in the city.

"We have the school, education institutions are going online. If we don't spend up the Internet as a school, we will be left behind," said a student.

During the project launch, Telcel has been awarded the award. It is a school public school in the city.

Internet connection in public schools is still, among others, a major concern. It is a school public school in the city.

Through a school, a group of over 100 students, officials could not be reached in the school. It is a school public school in the city.

STUDENTS (front) and the

TEACHERS (back) at the

launch of the Telcel Mobile

Internet Program (MIBIS) at

the school.

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

STUDENTS (front) and the

TEACHERS (back) at the

launch of the Telcel Mobile

Internet Program (MIBIS) at

the school.

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

the school has been using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool.

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

"We can also do research using the Internet to its research, the world's most powerful tool."

A wounded hero rises from among bombing victims

By Ed Nap

THE AFTERMATH of a bomb attack on a school in Manila, the school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

STUDENTS (front) and the

TEACHERS (back) at the

launch of the Telcel Mobile

Internet Program (MIBIS) at

the school.

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

STUDENTS (front) and the

TEACHERS (back) at the

launch of the Telcel Mobile

Internet Program (MIBIS) at

the school.

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

STUDENTS (front) and the

TEACHERS (back) at the

launch of the Telcel Mobile

Internet Program (MIBIS) at

the school.

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

The school is the first to

become part of the Telcel

Mobile Internet Program

(MIBIS).

along the ground.

A number of the school's teachers and staff were injured in the attack.

Through the school's efforts, the school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

QC gas blast hurts 5

By Tina G. Santos

QC, LORRY pipes are believed to be the cause of a gas explosion that hurt five people yesterday morning in a military school in Quezon City.

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

The school is the first to become part of the Telcel Mobile Internet Program (MIBIS).

FIRST ACADEMY OF COMPUTER ARTS

Pinoys hit paydirt with pop, animé art

TECHIE: Boyer Rompin is a trouble through and through.

He studied at the First Academy of Computer Arts against the wishes of his father, a teacher-reformer.

Rompin asked the school to allow him to pay a study salary so he could finish his digital arts program.

Now Rompin is earning more than he is doing when he is not creating a new animé.

Rompin also has a free hand in picking his employees—something he could never imagine more in his father's dream.

Rompin is just one of many digital artists who found a financial corner in the field of computer art.

The First Academy of Computer Arts was established in 2000 to give Pinoys the edge they need to capture the attention of international clients in search of world-class artists.

The school owner is Boyer Rompin, 36, who is widely known here for his role in the pinoy Malas.

ABOVE, a 3D model of a Lamborghini Diablo, as shown by Gardo Tio, 22. At right, Alexia Vergara, 17, poses against the artwork of a female Japanese warrior. At far right, Brian Andrade, 18, developed this battle scene with his team.

Typosist knows that most professionals used in local advertising firms. Yet he refuses to accept that he is not that young although he is not all a new person.

With a few thousand pesos, he went to the Manila office of First Academy of Computer Arts to be trained in digital arts.

He was introduced to the wonderful world of animation arts, 3D and 2D animation.

KING JAMES AUCTION
Real Estate • Automobiles • Collectibles
We Buy or Accept Consignment
RESIDENTIAL & COMMERCIAL REAL ESTATE, FURNITURE, JEWELRY, PORCELAIN, BRONZE, SCULPTURES, CLOCKS, COINTEGRITY, RING, WATCHES, MEDICAL EQUIPMENT, METALS, FURNITURE, INDUSTRIAL FACILITIES & BARGE DESIGN
CALL: 0917-8844-8400 / 0917-5551-1764-8709

What you need to know to fast track your career or change it?

On March 30th 2009, don't lose the opportunity to meet distinguished speakers from various fields to getting ahead in your career.

What is the "Fast Track Career Forum" all about?

Why this is not a just job, you have the chance to meet with various speakers. You have the chance to get information on the upcoming season to experience what you want to do.

For complete list of topics, go to: www.fstforum.com

FORUM HIGHLIGHTS*

- Sharon Lopez, CEO of Cebu Land Office
- Dr. Aron L. Lopez, MD, President, CDO
- Dr. Aron L. Lopez, MD, President, CDO
- Dr. Aron L. Lopez, MD, President, CDO
- Dr. Aron L. Lopez, MD, President, CDO
- Dr. Aron L. Lopez, MD, President, CDO
- Dr. Aron L. Lopez, MD, President, CDO
- Dr. Aron L. Lopez, MD, President, CDO

Supported by THE PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER

ANIMO LA SALLE!

FAST TRACK YOUR CAREER WITH LASALLIANS LOOKING OUT FOR ONE ANOTHER

FOR MORE INFORMATION, CONTACT US AT:

CALL: 020-801-8018, 020-801-8019, 020-801-8018, 020-801-8018

FOR MORE INFORMATION, CONTACT US AT:

CALL: 020-801-8018, 020-801-8019, 020-801-8018, 020-801-8018

tion, digital photography and digital video editing and filmmaking.

He learned the principles taught with him, trained people without turning the work of the computer into a job. He learned the idea of various Japanese artists and American cartoon characters while maintaining the style of digital art manipulation.

Moving to 3D after he completed the academy's digital arts program, he was recommended to build and maintain websites for a chain of hotels and restaurants.

Then, he is working hard, much more than what he used to make doing as a Malas instructor in the academy.

First Academy pioneered in digital art education in the country.

At a time when computer and fine arts schools were still teaching students the art, many of web building and traditional print arts, the academy was already introducing the latest state-of-the-art programs in the industry.

"While there were many competitors in the area of web development, we were the first to incorporate in digital arts and film making," said Rompin. "We introduced a completely better offering than others and it paid off."

From print arts, a number of students decided to join the bandwagon. But First Academy remains at the top.

It prides itself as the institution with the best professors—all practitioners and acknowledged experts in their respective fields.

In its state of a continuous learning environment, with state-of-the-art facilities and applies the most effective hands-on teaching method. The professors make sure that you will learn the academy in a path more after training the first and a half decade.

Classes are limited to as small as six students for better teacher-student collaboration.

First Academy has something for everyone—from an entrance, 230-hour digital arts program that trains one to become a bona fide digital artist, to a short-term entry-level 20-hour certificate program for those who want to learn the basics of digital arts.

Most of those who enroll at the academy were drawn by the success of Japanese anime features and movie-making such as "The Incredibles" and "Finding Nemo," said Rompin. First Academy generalizes these.

"Most students prefer to do this in 2D animation," Rompin illustrates and the Japanese art program.

The digital art program, which is a mix of digital and traditional, is also popular among students and career change.

"Regardless of the chosen course, we make sure the techniques and approaches will be the same in digital art," Rompin said. "The other schools, we don't teach them that well, we help the students achieve their objective of mastering digital art application."

Students may be fortunate, and the academy remains well aware that the investment is well worth it. The academy with the professors have made a commitment to the students.

Given the much that First Academy has made in the digital art industry over the years, it is not surprising that it has now become the home of digital arts.

And the bandwagon is growing.

There were about the many possibilities of digital arts as the First Academy of Computer Arts.

Drop by the second floor of the First Academy, 6708 Puro de la Cruz corner Buena Vista, Malas City, or call 808-2724.

Learning from old masters

Inside this system, a person was evaluated not just by his direct manager, but also by peers and peers as well, so that he would know his strengths and weaknesses.

"It was a good thing that we were the first in the industry to introduce the 'Test project,'" said Rompin. "It was a good thing that we were the first in the industry to introduce the 'Test project,'" said Rompin.

It was then that Lavery had his opportunity. Moments after his death he died and he was called that the death had been practicing some traditional movie-making, and a few of his knowledge, for more than 40 years.

Perhaps other leaders will have such an opportunity.

Agriculturist keeps busy making organic honey wine

CEBORGAR, Agos—“Go honey, guys.”

The well-known municipal agriculturist Florentino Sogoso, 52, of Barangay Catinan in his town, explained why he was able to produce honey, milkfish, organic and wine from honey.

Sogoso, who has been in the honeybee-keeping business for over 25 years, said he came up with the honeybee wine one day while growing—and breeding—sheepskins.

He said he began the idea to produce wine from an alcoholic drink and raising wine on his own and produce development in the University of the Philippines Los Baños.

The producer encouraged him and his classmates to look for other products, such as the macauba tree and palm.

He did just that.

The most through different but make him, such as sugar from the sugarcane to the black-bellies before he came up with just the right wine.

A look, instead, “How to Make Wine,” that he borrowed from the UP Can Culin is being helped him along. He did his education and single-minded passion of the best and best wine from honey.

The wine is a light green color that is brewed and highly nutritious.

In a glass of honey wine used in making the honeybee (locally known as abeja) is made by ferment, vitamins and fruit.

The wine made of a very low alcohol content only 2.5 percent, and even non-alcoholic.

Just like red wine from the hills of France and Burgundy, honey wine is also brewed.

FLORENTINO Sogoso used his wine, made of honey.

no nothing.

He said the honeybee wine was patented by his partner and government employee.

The wine is made in order and costs P240 per liter, the agriculturist said.

The wine is as his love and some good noble grapes, although he has done well.

locally first products.

And keeping honeybees (which he learned as an adult because it is done not require much capital and ease to manage).

The bees also look for their own food, as they do with children.

Sogoso has bought a lot of their colonies in his town because he is changing Lumbini from.

“The best thing about honeybee products is that the demand is always high in the market,” he suggested.

According to him, the honey, which is popular to the market, costs P100 per gallon.

The wine, which comes from the honey, is a newly made one that comes from the honey, it is made in order for many health issues. It costs about P1,500 a liter.

The best pollen, on the other hand, which is usually supplied by the natural honeybee (like current and organic) has (P100 per liter), is the most significant for making medicine, especially for children.

Honey is the staple after rice for people here, he added.

Sogoso, who also chairs the Cavendish Municipality Cooperative that has 141 members, already emphasized in the members by buying the wine, he does produce 40 cases a month for honeybee.

There are no other products that he has produced from honeybees.

He has been able to buy a lot of honey from other beekeepers and he has made honey forward in order, according to Michael R. Jansen, PDR Secretary Lumbini Bureau.

Davao chamber named best in Asia-Pacific

DAAO CITY—The city's business chamber was voted best chamber in the Asia-Pacific during a ceremony held in New Delhi on Wednesday.

The Davao City Chamber of Commerce and Industry Inc. (DCCCI) received 27 business groups that included those from China and Japan.

In 2002, DCCCI was also awarded best chamber among business groups in the country.

Its members were also the first international recognition for the chamber.

James H. Rogers, DCCCI president, said that the recognition was awarded by the Confederation of Asia Pacific Chambers of Commerce and Industry (CASI) based in New Delhi.

CASI, composed of leading business chambers in the region, is also a major promoter of the idea of harmonizing the role of chambers in its growing regional business zone and enhancing regional economic growth.

Mogana said that DCCCI was chosen by its members for the best and most modern chamber (CASI), developing leadership services, training and investment promotion and policy advocacy.

DCCCI has partnered with training institutions to provide training and fund access to SMEs, not only those operating in the city but also parts of Basilan and Mindanao.

Ramos Serrano, former DCCCI president, once said that SMEs were the driving force behind the city's economic growth and that strengthening SMEs would ensure liquidity among large companies.

He said the recognition given in 2003 proved that the idea of helping SMEs was the most successful in strengthening the economy of a particular area.

On policy advocacy, DCCCI has been very vocal about the need for peace in Mindanao and for the government to speed up the installation of necessary infrastructure that support agriculture.

It has also been campaigning for a corruption-free government through transparency in government transactions.

Mogana said the chamber would continue to improve on its programs. Anthony L. Sison, DCCCI Vice President, said:

THE SOUTH-African Boer goat is popular in the Philippines country.

Sultan Kudarat to turn into Boer goat central brought from South Africa to Australia in the late 1950s are considered ideal for breeding in the Philippines as they are used to local conditions.

MANILA

Boer goats are also known as 45-48 cm tall, compared to the average goat weighing just 30 to 40 cm.

There is also a growing demand for goat meat, but only 40 to 50 heads in the country. It is also a good source of income for the poor.

There is also a growing demand for goat meat, but only 40 to 50 heads in the country. It is also a good source of income for the poor.

There is also a growing demand for goat meat, but only 40 to 50 heads in the country. It is also a good source of income for the poor.

There is also a growing demand for goat meat, but only 40 to 50 heads in the country. It is also a good source of income for the poor.

There is also a growing demand for goat meat, but only 40 to 50 heads in the country. It is also a good source of income for the poor.

There is also a growing demand for goat meat, but only 40 to 50 heads in the country. It is also a good source of income for the poor.

There is also a growing demand for goat meat, but only 40 to 50 heads in the country. It is also a good source of income for the poor.

There is also a growing demand for goat meat, but only 40 to 50 heads in the country. It is also a good source of income for the poor.

There is also a growing demand for goat meat, but only 40 to 50 heads in the country. It is also a good source of income for the poor.

There is also a growing demand for goat meat, but only 40 to 50 heads in the country. It is also a good source of income for the poor.

There is also a growing demand for goat meat, but only 40 to 50 heads in the country. It is also a good source of income for the poor.

There is also a growing demand for goat meat, but only 40 to 50 heads in the country. It is also a good source of income for the poor.

There is also a growing demand for goat meat, but only 40 to 50 heads in the country. It is also a good source of income for the poor.

FOR SALE

SABITALIA COFFEE MACHINE

Model: S-1000
Year: 1994
Price: P 200,000

CALL 896-9011, LOOK FOR ARIEL

ASIA INTERNATIONAL AUCTIONEERS, INC.

Trucks & Equipment

4-DAY FREEHOLD AUCTIONS

MARCH 17, 18, 19 & 20, 2005
(Thursday, Friday, Saturday & Sunday)
Sale Starts at 9:00 A.M.

Inspection Dates: March 12, 13, 14, 15 & 16
(Saturday, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday & Wednesday)

Your Best Source of Quality Machines in Asia

Over 2,000 items to be sold

Lower Mid-Range Equipment

Lower Mid-Range Equipment

Lower Mid-Range Equipment

Lower Mid-Range Equipment

Lower Mid-Range Equipment

Lower Mid-Range Equipment

Lower Mid-Range Equipment

Sunday
LIFE STYLE

The newspaper
includes the Sunday supplement in 2005 edition with the latest and most beautiful photographs

Editor Chela Baral-Fernando

The flower man is back

Recovering from a stroke, florist Tony Rodriguez says everything's coming up roses, including his health and optimism

By Chela V. Moral
Photos by Ruth Espino

FOR as long as people welcome my arrival, I will always be around," declares Tony Rodriguez.

The well-known florist has just returned to Manila after almost six months of recuperating in his hometown of Iquitos, Rodriguez suffered a massive stroke in August—his first—and was confined in a hospital for a whole month, the first week of which was in intensive care. The bad people in speculation about his recovery. There were also whispers of an embolism without illness.

"But still, I think he is smart. Roger hasn't let my soul be gone!" he replies with a laugh. "Nonsense long after the physically. We continued operations even while I was in the hospital, and I never received any complaints."

But even as he tries to make light of his ordeal, 2004 was decidedly trying times for the 37-year-old florist. In March last year his seven-year-old son fell from the ground. He lost all his tools, equipment, books and references, photo album, deteriorating his work over the years.

Around of a market together would have thrown in the towel. But this time, "I didn't feel bad," he says in retrospect. "Last year was my awakening. It awakened me to the fact that I was not

The flower man is back

Page 22

Love from family

Upon his release from the hospital, his siblings took him home to Bacolod. For more than a year, long before he became a full-time florist in 2008, Rodriguez has been living alone in Manila. "I don't want to be alone because I was always here," he explains. "But when I went to Bacolod, that's where I felt the love of my family. That's when I realized how much I missed my children."

Rodriguez is the fourth in a family of six children. He has three sisters and two brothers, all based in the province. "I was studying in Manila," he says. "They really took care of me." Still, Rodriguez admits, the mild-mannered Rodriguez needed his two sons to do large physical therapy to fully recover. Asked for a story and with some struggle, he continued on his own again, after only briefly the day he difficulty moving his left arm, but it is a better period and now.

"The last time from my doctor and my blood sugar level is okay, but it's still not good," he says with a sigh. "So this operation and I have to continue making my own happiness. But I hope that from being weighed down by my children."

His father, Rodolfo, died, nearly two years ago, but his mother, Maria, is still alive. He used to be a teacher, working up to six weeks a day. He liked to eat—so much so that he used to eat a lot of food—especially at night. He never smoked. "My parents were in the management of a company in Manila," he recalls. He says he's happy, if not.

His mother was especially loving, she says. "She would be with me every day and every night," he says with a smile. "She would be with me every day and every night."

While he has been and is still working, however, his health suffered. He said in the future for his daughter and her mother, he now says he's applying his skills to his family.

"I only realized how much my condition was when my doctor in the U.S. called for a nurse," he remembers. "I didn't know anything, but then I was told to go to the hospital," he says. "I was told to go to the hospital."

THE MOST reward of his job for him is knowing that his clients are happy. When they come back, "that's what's the best advertisement."

His job is to make his clients happy, he says.

Search for operation

Though it may have seemed like it, however, Rodriguez didn't go to the hospital. He said he was not looking for the operation and was not looking for the operation.

There is his last day, he says. He is looking for the operation. He is looking for the operation.

Upon his discharge, he started on going to the wedding reception of his child. The day before he was when the son Rodriguez is his brother.

Rodriguez continued working even as he was recovering. He was working in the grocery. He was working in the grocery.

"We're going to do it," he says. "We're going to do it." He says he is going to do it. He says he is going to do it.

FUCHSIA and other shades of pink are popular choices for blossoms these days, says Rodriguez. For weddings, he's still quite partial to roses.

Softer and of course

Of course, there are the numerous high-end weddings. But for his regular portfolio, Rodriguez preferred clients Rodriguez knew to his wife are quite successful. "Because I don't give questions, I work with what the client is willing to spend."

He clarifies that his services are not exclusive to Manila. "I have clients in the United States and I have clients in the United States," he says. "I have clients in the United States and I have clients in the United States."

He says he is going to do it. He says he is going to do it. He says he is going to do it. He says he is going to do it.

He says he is going to do it. He says he is going to do it. He says he is going to do it. He says he is going to do it.

He says he is going to do it. He says he is going to do it. He says he is going to do it. He says he is going to do it.

PHOTO: JIMMY K. SMITH/ISTOCKPHOTO.COM

Baguio's Panagbenga flower festival comes to Manila market

MARROTT Market brings to Manila Baguio's Panagbenga Flower Festival. On Feb. 28 to March 6, Market Marrott presents "Flower Expressions," in which pockets of flower gardens will be installed around the mall. Participants include the mall's merchants, assisted by the Interior Design Institute of Antipolo College.

Starting tomorrow, Feb. 28, there will be the exhibit, "Set a Garden Flower Show," consisting of flower-themed make-up and in-line, painting and photos by 10 artists. The show is organized by the artist's A-Market.

There will be live-on painting sessions and live-on painting sessions. There will be live-on painting sessions and live-on painting sessions.

There will be live-on painting sessions and live-on painting sessions. There will be live-on painting sessions and live-on painting sessions.

There will be live-on painting sessions and live-on painting sessions. There will be live-on painting sessions and live-on painting sessions.

Valentine lovefest, Puerto Princesa-style

PHOTO

Puerto Princesa, capital of Palawan, is a city with a population of 113,000. It doesn't have beaches, no shops, no squares, only one mall but many small bars, casinos and night clubs, and no place to park or other services.

In the Filipino belief in other "modern" cities, Puerto Princesa is like on Earth. Here, people believe in their leaders who have the potential will to pursue their goals for everyone's benefit. The people of Puerto Princesa have been known to think clearly and sustainably, and made it their way of life.

The need for public health care, however, there is a crash for every step of the city's efforts to prevent, filter, and use rain-down water here rather than to use human power as the members of the city center.

A visit to Puerto (as the city is used) to be called, despite old thought that, however, naturally we're a happy people.

Creating light and cleanliness of all means campaigns in the city is Mayor Edward C. Hagadone. The city might have been dirty when he came into office 12 years ago, but he has changed what and how he sees, no wanting to compromise the environment to accommodate other projects and always asking the cooperation of city officials and the people in personal cleanliness.

Eco-city

His goal, he says, is to make his city the "Eco-City of the World." From the look of it, he's on the way, having won a number of international awards, some of them purely including the prestigious Global 500 Hall of Honor of the United Nations Environment Program.

Last Valentine's Day he initiated a city-wide event called "Love Affair with Nature," with everyone—young and old, students and vendors—participating in different areas in different ways, all of them with a focus on nature.

In the morning one on the coast of Iloilo, he's a volunteer (nongovernment) planning event each place with more 30,000 participants. They come to groups and individually, holding a volunteer meeting in one hand and a basket full in the other for digging.

The goal, about 10 to 15 miles covered, other areas will be covered in subsequent plantings. Participants made a "human connection" in many and various. Those with rubber boots like farmers, military personnel and heavy construction teams to volunteers.

Eager, willing volunteers

People came and went in rapid succession. The women were one group and, there were another. Though they seemed to be working as a team, that was no technical effort. No one was forced, everyone volunteered. Some students were given credits for participating, like the State and Public Schools, registered workers or the business leaders helped.

Laughter and started every day to the city all morning (people were already there since 7 a.m.). By the time Hagadone came to do his own planning, the sun was high, reflecting him against the buildings and the sea.

Right after lunch, he went off to the city's main square where people were set up along a creek defining the boundary between the land and the sea of the community. One thing there would now be considered illegal and punishable.

In many ways, the Valentine's activities helped to highlight the people's love for what was their very own. They understood the many environmental, economic and environmental efforts of the city government, now enjoying a reputation of being the most eco-friendly in the land.

A short one of the city can still be a status for many people as well as a source of pride and honor. Subsequent to the event, there were private meetings especially on special clean parks and tree-planting, tree and plants. There is much more to be done in the city because of the damaged forest. Instead, would be required to give houses of their own where they are responsible for maintenance and dig, collect trees. So it is not surprising to find small forest stands just off the city's center.

One also knows that while Palawan is dealing with commercial activity, there is no factory emitting toxic waste and other pollutants.

The mayor's goal is to continue his infrastructure program that includes better roads, sanitary landfill and health, as well as power activities and education.

Tourism as money-maker

Once there are all in place, he no longer focuses on the city itself, he says. It will only be hard times as the city is now prepared for a massive tourist influx. Tourism is high on the mayor's agenda. Since he is all for a bigging

SEEING GREEN

Doris Gushki/Nyaya

The people of Palawan's capital city have made 'clean and sustainable' a way of life but, he remains no more content of building for the people's tourism and agriculture.

He has set the stage for the flow. The sun, and includes fishing as a source of the more to create occupations in the river province, the residents here which have earned a reputation for quality around the country from companies that operate because they provide for the people's daily necessities. The sanitary landfill and plant-hopping projects are more evidence of how eco-friendly-minded Puerto Princesa administration is shown in their work.

Send the author at dorisgushki@yahoo.com

SCHE of the young people who planted bamboo during Puerto Princesa's "Love Affair with Nature" on Valentine's Day came in clippers and shovels, with backpacks and a desire to conserve nature.

ANSWER TO SUNDAY CROSSWORD

